Outcomes = What Students Are Saying...

"That caring about making a change is not the same as actually making a change"

"I learnt about how you can take the concept of amusing self to using that to amaze others and really amaze yourself. How rebellion and revolution are so different in our society to the tradition view on them."

"I learnt that I can positively influence my school by using amusing self to inspire others. That yes everyone has their own agenda, but you need to accept this and try and change it the best way you can through, show positivity and attitude through mindset."

"After attending Audacious, I will respect other people's views on life and use their views and opinions to help form my own. (Not change mine, but give me another perspective to consider)."

"You will learn a lot about the way you approach problems/topics different to everyone else. It is a rewarding experience."

"Other schools have valid and important ideas and traditions that could be introduced into my community to influence positive change. Having new ideas and different perspectives allows me to have something to add to my community to benefit it."

"I was initially apprehensive, sharing my life and ideas with strangers was difficult but ultimately, being able to learn and influence has been an invaluable experience for which I am grateful and do not regret whatsoever."

Outcomes = What Staff Are Saying...

"The MBC girls were inspired, enthused and empowered by their experiences at Audacious Forum. They have returned to school with a voice and a desire to share all they have learned with their peers on their Senior Leadership journey. MBC is excited to provide this opportunity for our girls next year."

Janet L Stewart Head of Students Moreton Bay College

"The Audacious Forum, conducted by Peer Power, is a powerful opportunity for aspiring student to fully understand how they can positively influence their communities. Young people will be guided through contemporary and relevant leadership exercises which assist them to fully appreciate the essence of their privileged roles. Brisbane Grammar School students have participated in the program since its inception and the boys always feel empowered to do wonderful for their school community." Anthony Micallef Headmaster Brisbane Grammar School

"It was a real buzz to see the students embracing the Audacious ideal. The students came away feeling empowered and energised to not only lead, but to embrace their own unique qualities and strengths and apply them. Thanks." Guy Hawkins Chaplain The Gap SHS

"Since attending the Audacious Forum, our students have displayed a genuine desire to contribute to the wider life of the College."

David Pavish Assistant Principal Cannon Hill Anglican College

"I love the fact this program is open to students who wouldn't normally have the opportunity for a formal leadership position, but who have tremendous potential as a leader. Attending the program has boosted people's confidence, taught them lots about themselves and about their capacity to influence others in a positive way." Paul Browning Headmaster - St Paul's Anglican College
